- Acronyms: the use of acronyms should be done according to the universally valid nomenclature and should not mix different languages, initially the full name will be quoted and in parentheses the acronym, then only the acronym will be highlighted. Example: Universidad Nacional Abierta y a Distancia (UNAD) – then always UNAD.
- Tables and graphs: Tables and graphs, tables, figures and illustrations must include a name or title, centered, written in normal 3ont and 10 point 3ont and must be numbered consecutively, with Arabic numerals.

Example:

Figure 1. Comparative table of the behavior of the two periods.

- Photographs: should include a brief explanatory caption, centered in normal 10-point font and in italics.
- References and Bibliography.
When quoting, textually or not, the ideas or words of another author or institution, a parenthesis containing the source information should be placed at the end of the quotation. If the quotation is textual, the page should be included, as follows:

One authors: (Porter, 1999); (Mintzberg, 1998, p. 25).	Two authors: (Porter, 1999); (Hofstede & Minkov, 2010)
More than two authors: (Avery et al.,2008)
